Undeserved teacher of Russia

A common theme that worries everyone, causing a variety of emotions —going back to work after a long vacation. In late summer, the teachers make a list of signs that indicate the inexorable approach of the new school year, as well as the typical experiences and actions that it is accompanied by.

- When you start having dreams about school, it is a sure sign that classes will start soon. Though one would rather call them nightmares.
- With the approach of autumn is dedicated to the first of September, starts to appear more and more often...
- You start to practice the pronunciation of names, only received the list of new students. But then earlier mistaken.

The subject of suffering: shoes, corresponding to a strict dress code that you have to wear after a summer spent in flip-flops.For its part we will notice that the Shoe business style is also can (and should) be convenient, especially if you stand all day in front of an audience.(source: teachermemes.com)

The picture of the world teachers from small American cities is the students and parents that like to appear relaxed and serene summer teachers in your local Mall, caf or at the cinema to discuss important issues. Such teachers are the creators of memes often give the advice to divert attention and escape.

little things in life: spinners and lockers

The school also teachers from the beginning of the school year waiting for a lot of small household and educational problems — for example, the queue at the photocopier or in the dining room, too much students ' attention to entertainment content in smartphones and correspondence through messengers. As well as the ubiquitous devices that accompany students in the school. Some of them are transport corridors, others playing music, others are just turning.

This has certain advantages: not following technological trends and toys, the teacher can, without making any effort to be aware of all fashion trends. All the work for him, make disciples.

Some signs of a school life, which in Russia are not used, for U.S. worker education have cult status, and therefore often fall at the pictures. For example, metal lockers for learning things that are not only in gyms but also in the corridors.

What matters to this teacher? Someone will throw up the subject of sympathy in the locker love note, a foe — something nasty so that will have to deal. Bullies have a habit of beating on the lockers and spoil them in the same way as in Russian cities prominaetsya downspouts. But novices often are unable to cope with their own key, so teachers have to open several complex locks in a day.

questions, excuses, and forgotten "homework"

Memes on Teacher Memes are divided into several sections: common questions, behavior, homework, test students ' attention and participation in work, training, fun and frustrating part of writing (you can't just sign the piece of paper, right?) attendance, excuses.

On the one hand, in school all the time there is something new on the other — many situation is known to any teacher by heart. They are similar to myths of the world: General subjects, which are repeated in different countries with only a small correction to the local cultural scenery.

For example, American teachers a lot of jokes about academic credits that students must collect in a certain amount to graduate. If you believe the meme, negligent students often beg for loans, believing that the teachers can starve.

But "a call for teachers" and "I'll wait until it's quiet" — international eternal values."If you do not like to repeat twice, do not become a teacher."

love for the profession

As Russian colleagues, teachers from other countries share not only complaints and jokes, but also successes. For example, show the original project or how the students managed to transform the class from a boring space with a standard arrangement of tables in a more intimate and attractive space.

"That's how my classroom looked when I first came/went in there, and that's how he became now."(source: teachermemes.com)
The victim complex as the diagnosis of a Russian teacher

For many professional dedication is the reason for pride and maintain self-esteem. Therefore, teachers often tell in pictures about how preparing for classes — lying down with legs up on the couch, biting his pencil and fell asleep in the process, just as their own students. Judging by the meme, some even have to save the visual AIDS and literature from children and Pets. Although sometimes love to the profession are difficult to distinguish from memes about professional deformation.

Not to say that teachers' motivational pics I have a profound conviction or taste from the "inspirational quotes" that are exchanged between managers in the office, but the fact that the graphics editor is taken not to complain and to do something life-affirming, can not but rejoice.
